HOUSEHOLD GRID

The Household grid has to be completed only by the component identified as the "Household grid Holder".

LOOP: Questions for each component

FOGFAM000 - FIRST NAME AND LAST NAME OF THE HOUSEHOLD COMPONENT

[If first component] I would like to start with some general questions. What's your name?

[If second component] Now think about your family members. I'd like to ask you a few questions about each of them. Let's start from _____ .

[From the third member onwards] Think about your family members now. I'd like to ask you a few questions about each of them.

Enter the family member's name and surname according to the interviewee's suggestion

First name _____

Last name _____

Automatically code the answer as "household grid Holder" for the household member answering the questions in the household grid. For the other components, let the interviewee spontaneously declare the degree of kinship to her/him and record it, asking the interviewee for confirmation. If necessary, ask for useful further details for the purposes of classification, for example: "is she/he your daughter/son only or even your partner's child?"

At the 1st iteration only code 1 appears, and code 1 is mandatory. In the subsequent iterations cod 1 does not appear. If code 2,3 or 4 are selected in the subsequent iterations none of the three will appear

SPONTANEOUS ANSWER

EDUCATION

All the episodes of education that you have experienced are now surveyed.

To us, an episode of education begins with enrollment in a school (including nursery and kindergarten), a vocational education center or a university, para-university or post-graduate course.

The education episode is surveyed even if you have dropped out that course of study without finishing it, even if you have changed the location of the school from one school to another, or even if you have changed the path of studies, for example from Lyceum to Technical institute or if you changed the branch of the school from one school to another. The same applies to university experience, with changes of course or university, but also with course changes within the same university.

So, if during your studies you have had changes of course, each of them represents the end of one episode and the beginning of another. Take this into account when answering the following questions.

JOB

CURRENT JOB

In the next section of the interview we will reconstruct your job career, which, to us, is made up of all work experiences and periods of absence from job for at least 30 days for reasons such as illness, maternity leave, unemployment, military service, etc.

Therefore, to us, each work experience ends when you change the employer and/or the type of job even if you remain in the same company, or when you stop working for at least 30 days.

The next questions refer to the job carried out in the week from Monday ___ to Sunday ___.

Consider the job from which you received a reward, with or without a contract, or unpaid work only if you usually do it at a family member's business. Do not consider occasional activities carried out to incur small expenses (e.g. for books, entertainment, holidays, etc.).

Now we want to reconstruct your career, which, to us, is made up of all work experiences and periods of absence from job for at least 30 days for reasons such as illness, maternity leave, unemployment, military service, etc. Therefore, to us, each job experience ends when you change the employer and/or the type of job (contract, duties and responsibilities, placement) even if you remain in the same company, or when you stop working for at least 30 days. If an occasional consultant or collaborator, an experience ends if the type of activity carried out or the employment position changes (e.g. transition to an employee job). Again referring to the time when you were 14 years old, can you tell me if your father had a job at the time?

If when the interviewee was 14 years old the father had already stopped working or was already dead or was no longer living with the interviewee, it is necessary to survey the last job he did before he stopped working or before he died or before he left the family (if the interviewee heard nothing about him). If the father did more than one job, refer to the main one, that is, the one that engaged him for more hours, from which he perceived greater reward and which guaranteed greater stability

Think about your family's debts (i.e. loans, mortgages, consumer credit, etc.). Please do not consider the mortgage on the house in which you live and any debts relating to your professional activity or to a family member (e.g. for the purchase of the refrigerator in your restaurant). How much are your overall family's debts currently?

If necessary, add "consider all the debts your family has towards banks or financial companies or in instalments for the purchase or renovation of real estate (other than housing), for the purchase of means of transport (such as cars or motorbikes), for the purchase of furniture, appliances, etc., for the purchase of non-durable goods such as holidays, to finance other purchases or daily expenses, to finance education expenses".
